

[avia_codeblock_placeholder uid="0"]

Meleesa Naughton

Water resources management specialist

Areas of expertise

- Mapping and remote sensing for natural resources management
- Project management

Meleesas` CV

Meleesa Naughton is a water resources management professional with experience in research and project management to improve rural and urban water supply and sanitation, and mapping and remote sensing for natural resources management.

Key data

Qualification (Institute)	Advanced Masters (mastère) in Spatial Information Systems for Land Management and Project Management (AgroParisTech, Montpellier, France) Masters of Science (M.Sc) in Water Science, Policy and Management (University of Oxford, UK) Bachelors of Arts (B.A) in European Studies (Trinity College Dublin, Ireland)
Working languages	English and French (native), Russian and Spanish (intermediate)
Years of Experience	8
Nationality	French and British
Country experience and regional expertise	Sub-Saharan Africa: Cameroon, Cote d'Ivoire Middle East and North Africa: Morocco, Tunisia CIS: Moldova, Belarus, Russia, Kyrgyzstan
Select projects, roles, achievements and publications	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • RWSN – Rural Water Supply Network: Secretariat • Communications manager for 7th RWSN Forum (Abidjan, 2016) • Research team / author: “The Future of Water in African cities” (World Bank, 2012) and “Mainstreaming water resources management in urban project” (World Bank, 2016) • Lead author: “Managing multi-purpose water infrastructure” (OECD, 2017) • Lead author: “Providing Sustainable Sanitation Services for All in WASH Interventions through a Menstrual Hygiene Management Approach” (World Bank, 2017) • Swiss Agency for Development and Cooperation (SDC)
Key clients	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The World Bank • UNICEF • OECD

Affiliations and networks

- Réseau Projection member
- World Bank Group Youth-to-youth Partnership and Fundraising chair (2013)

LinkedIn

Contact